Lady Dog Catcher May Lose Her Job

POTTSTOWN, Pa. — This city may lose its lady dog catcher if a court suit filed yesterday is successful.
An irate dog owner charged in Montgomery County court that Mrs. Jane Miller, 37, has been serving for two years illegally. Robert Guinee says the Borough Council never passed an ordinance providing for a dog catcher—they just upped and hired Mrs. Miller.
Officials are wondering if the suit is successful whether they will have to refund fines collected from over 100 owners.

The mission book study on Japan was held at the Hughesville Baptist Church Saturday afternoon from 1:30 to 4 for the WMU, young people's organizations. Rev. Richard Alsip, pastor, taught the intermediates, the book being "The Tarnished Helmet", which shows the struggle Japanese young people have in breaking away from the family tradition of ancestor worship to accept Christianity. "Koji of Japan", a story of a 12-year-old Japanese boy and his experiences in getting an education and becoming a Christian, was taught the Junior group by Mrs. Edwin Williams. The Primary group was taught the book "The Lantern and the Song" which tells of two Japanese children who are won to Christ through church members who carry a lighted lantern through the streets singing simple hymns of faith. This book was taught by Mrs. Frank Hopkins and Mrs. Richard Alsip. There was a display of things from Japan including chop sticks, Koshi dolls, fans and other novelties.

At the close of the teaching period a party was held and the children were seated on the floor Japanese style for refreshments. Each child received a favor. Besides the teachers, others who helped with the planning, decorating and serving the refreshments were Mrs. Frances Carroll, Mrs. Dewitt Phillips, Mrs. Alonzo Moon and Pauline Chamberlin. There were 47 in attendance.

Adco Research Director Speaks To Sorosis About Dry Cleaning

Dr. James C. Alexander, head of chemistry research at Adco, Inc., who addressed Sorosis Monday afternoon on the subject, "Drycleaning," stated that all members of a community, have a financial interest in industries of the town.

As long as a community has an income equal to or exceeding the money going out, it is all right. A community must export as well as import, he pointed out, and that is why industries are so important to a town, and why every citizen has so much stake in it. It is a way of getting money back into the town.

Sedalia, Dr. Alexander said, is very fortunate in having several ways of getting money back into the town; it has agriculture, the air base, the shops and then it has a number of industries.

The second oldest manufacturing company in Sedalia is ADSCO, which was started by J. R. Van Dyne, Sr., and at that time it was known as the American Disinfecting Co., which dealt mostly in janitor supplies.

Then among the products that the company manufactured was coconut oil shampoo. That was fine for the soft water that Sedalia had always had but it was the breaking of Flat Creek dam, he said, that brought about the new shampoo. As long as the water was soft the shampoo worked fine, but after that it just made the hair gummy so the formula was changed and thus came about the excellent shampoo Adco has today.

In 1920, Dr. Alexander said, somebody took an ADSCO product and used it successfully for drycleaning. They have never found out who really did it first—there have been so many claims—but since that product was selling so fast for drycleaning, the company thought it would be well if they would manufacture a product just for that purpose. By 1944 that was a major part of the business and the name of the company was changed from American Disinfecting Company to ADSCO. He stated that 90 per cent of the dollar volume of their business was in drycleaning products, and ADSCO is one of the two largest producers of drycleaning detergents in the world.

Americans, he said, pay from $1,300,000 to $1,500,000 a year for drycleaning. During 1956, ADSCO's payroll was $400,000, and from the United States and other countries drycleaning detergents contributed $36,000 to that payroll.

Drycleaning, Dr. Alexander said, is to the textile industry what the oil companies are to the automobile industry. As far back as history goes, he said, people could spin and weave — it must have come at about the same time as fire. Fabrics were made then as now, only by hand instead of machine. There was always one problem, though. That was how to clean certain materials, especially silk or wool.

The garments had to be taken apart, washed, dried, stretched into shape, pressed and then put back together. The fiber swells when material is put in water causing it to either shrink or stretch, he said. There were many curious ways of cleaning found in books used years ago. One was to use soft water with a black pebble in it. Dr. Alexander said he didn't know what the black pebble would do, but that was what the item said. Then there was a way to clean shirtwaists by putting them in four parts of cornmeal that had been put in a pillowslip and knead them. Lace was cleaned by pinning it on brown paper and using bread crumbs. When the crumbs and the paper became soiled, the lace was pinned on clean paper and more bread crumbs used. Too, stale beer was supposed to give stiffening, but Dr. Alexander wondered what it smelled like when they got through.

It was in 1850, the speaker said, that drycleaning was discovered through an accident. A young barmaid in France overturned a coal oil lamp on a tablecloth and the Frenchman who owned the place noticed how clean the tablecloth was where the coal oil had been.

He had an idea, so he put coal oil in a bucket and swished the tablecloth up and down. Sure enough the coal oil cleaned it. He experimented a little more and then went to Paris and started up the first drycleaning establishment. He later started another in London which is still there. This was known as French drycleaning, and later the Swiss started dry cleaning, too. In those early days white gasoline was used, the cleaning was done in a bucket and then the clothes were hung out each day for about a week to get the odor out of them. There have been great strides made in dry cleaning, Dr. Alexander said, in the past 50 years, with special machinery and special new detergents. The largest trade union in the world, he said, is the Institute of Drycleaning.

Soaps are detergents, too, Dr. Alexander explained, but a soap is dissolved in water, and drycleaning detergent must be dissolved in a dissolvent. It takes seven different raw materials which if changed by one per cent will change the formula.

The first thing that happens when clothes go to the cleaner, Dr. Alexander said, is that they are examined, then marked, ladies dresses have buttons or fancy ornaments removed that might be ruined by drycleaning, dresses with sequins and beads are put aside for special treatment, all garments are classified by fiber and color, then things are tumbled in the solvent solution which takes out water and perspiration stains, powder is added to take out some of the fats and loose dye, then spun to get the solvent out and tumbled dry, unless it is a delicate fabric—then it is blown dry. The last and very important thing is finishing, the overall pressing with special equipment, and the presser must be skilled to know the fabric. The solvent is too expensive to throw away so the dirt is filtered out and the solvent used again.

Dr. Alexander told of a few things that should be done before a garment is sent to the cleaner. A woman should always sew up a hole in her coat pocket immediately, he said, because things slip through to the lining, such as lipstick. She loses her lipstick, she doesn't know where, so buys a new one but when it goes to the cleaner it not only can ruin her coat but a whole lot of other garments put in with it, especially if it is kiss-proof kind; it just won't come out. Then, he said, if the cleaner knows what a spot is caused from he knows what to use to get it out. The garment should be sent as soon as it is spotted and the cleaner told what it is. Don't keep it in the closet six months, Dr. Alexander said, because when the stain has set it won't come out. And then there are buttons that burn right through not only that garment, but also the one hanging back of it. Don't wear a good dress at anytime during the period of a permanent stain from that may not show up immediately but will appear months later after many drycleanings. Sugar stains from syrup, white wine and soft drinks are sometimes impossible to get out and show up later.

Things of any value found in pockets are returned to the owner and that sometimes doesn't work out well, Dr. Alexander said, such as when a pair of lady's gloves are found in a man's coat pocket and returned to his wife, and when the gloves are size 3 1/2 and the wife wears size 8.

Cleaners are sometimes played for a sucker, Dr. Alexander said. A woman has clothes cleaned in the spring, has a vacation during the summer where she eats too much and gains weight, then decides the cleaner shrunk the clothes because she can't get in them. He takes them for a couple of weeks, telling her that he will see what can be done. He can't tell her she got fat, so he keeps hoping her friends will tell her or she will lose weight in the two weeks, and it usually works. He can tell whether the garment shrunk or not and sometimes garments do shrink, but it is that kind of material. Of course, said Dr. Alexander, everybody makes mistakes sometimes, and a drycleaner is not an exception. If he is smart, he will go to the person before she has a chance to come to him, waving the money at her and ask her how much she wants.

That pays dividends, she will be pleased, will tell all her friends and not only will he keep her business but he will get a lot more from her friends.

Dr. Alexander was introduced by Mrs. George T. Lockett, civics chairman.

Mrs. Harold Dean, president, conducted the meeting.

Miss Kathryn Spangler, current topics chairman, announced that the speaker next week will be Dr. Hans F. Schweigmann, consul of the Federal Republic of Germany, German Consulate Berlin, Germany, who is at the consulate in Kansas City for the states of Missouri, Kansas and Colorado. There will be a luncheon, with reservations to be in by Friday.

Court Has More Homes to Fill Than Children

MANISTIQUE, Mich. — The only trouble with Glen Lake's seven motherless children is that "there weren't enough to go around."

For two years after his wife died, Lake, a 38-year-old timber worker, labored to keep his young family together. Finally, he decided he couldn't do it alone.

He took his problem to the Schoolcraft County Probate Court and among the 200 residents of Little Thompson Township, eight miles west of Manistique, he found open hearts and open homes.

In fact, court aides explained, there were more homes than there were children.

Giving the court custody of the six youngest children, ranging in age from 3 to 13, Lake imposed a set of terms to keep his family as much as possible intact.

All of the children were to be placed with Thompson Township couples. Each child over ten had to give his consent. Lake had final approval and reserved visiting privileges.

When the court made public the terms this week, it also explained that most of the children had been living in foster homes since Dec. 10 and are all "getting along fine."

Lake asked the oldest child, a 15-year-old girl, to remain with him.

Three of the children — Lester, 12; Allen, 10, and Arthur, 7 — went to live with Mr. and Mrs. George Grimm. Two others — Lois, 3, and John, 6 — went to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Anderson. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hastings took Frank, 13.

2-Year-Old Boy Laughs As Firemen Chop Up Porch to Free Him

LOS ANGELES — The porch at Charles Davidson's house is in pretty bad shape today.

Firemen smashed it up to free 2-year-old Chuckie Davidson's leg, which became wedged in a drainpipe. The child laughed with glee as the firemen used a sledge hammer, and with each blow shouted: "Boom, boom, boom."

The boy emerged unhurt, and still was laughing when the job was finished, so he gave each of the firemen a big kiss.

Medical Adviser Says Tests on Atom Devices Can Safely Continue

ST. LOUIS — Dr. Shields Warren, professor of pathology at Harvard and medical adviser to the Atomic Energy Commission, says recent measurements of radioactive fall-out indicate "tests of atomic devices may be safely continued at the present rate for years."

In a lecture at the St. Louis University School of Medicine, Dr. Warren reported 250,000 measurements of radioactive fall-out have been made recently.

"The levels of radioactive strontium at present attained from fall-out or industrial atomic wastes have not reached disturbing levels in air, water or soil," he said. "The levels of strontium 90 in foodstuffs and in animal or human bones have not reached levels that are capable of producing pathological effects."

South Dakota Coed Is Fatally Shot By Rejected Suitor

VERMILION, S. D. — A senior girl student at the University of South Dakota was shot fatally last night at her home here.

Authorities said the girl was slain by a sophomore student she had refused to marry, who then turned the weapon against himself and was critically wounded.

Theodore Dolney, Clay County States Attorney, said Jeanne Bruyer, a drum majorette at the university, died from six bullets fired into the upper part of her body. One, he reported, brought death by severing the respiratory nerve at the base of the skull.

Taken to a Sioux City, Iowa hospital in critical condition was Donald Steele, son of Dr. D. S. Steele, a Robbinsdale, Minn., veterinarian.

Mrs. Evelyn Bruyer, mother of the dead girl, said she was in an adjoining room when she heard her daughter ask, "where did you get that gun?" before she could act, she said the shots were fired.

Miss Bruyer died at a Vermillion hospital a short time after the shooting.

Model T Ford Stolen

DENVER — A dream car features? Jet age design? Nope. They hold no allure for the burglar who broke into a Denver garage and towed away a handsome vehicle the other night. The stolen auto was a model T Ford, vintage 1925.

City Officials Will Auction Gold Piece

BRUNSWICK, Maine — Selectmen have decided to sell at auction the $2.50 gold piece which a motorist accidentally dropped into a parking meter. The decision to sell was reached after newspaper stories failed to turn up the owner. Coin dealers indicated the gold piece might be worth $11 — or 13,200 parking minutes.

Change Is Confusing

SANTA FE, N. M. — Rep. Matias Chacon, Democratic floor leader of the state house of representatives, found it a big difficult to adjust to the opening of the legislature. "If the court release..." he started, in addressing the chair. Speaker Donald Hallam, like Chacon an attorney, grinned and remarked understandingly: "It takes a few days."

Scratched Finger Only Injury in Car Crash

MIDWAY, Ky. — A scratched finger was the only injury among five persons in a grocery store when a car rolled 150 feet down a street and smashed into the building. Officers said the brakes on the parked car apparently failed. Damage to the store was estimated at $1,500.

He was awarded the Air Medal with three clusters and numerous other service awards.

Returning to the States Booe attended a six-week observer course at Mather Air Force Base then reported to Whiteman in November 1954. Capt. Booe flies with B-47 Aircraft Commander Capt. W. G. Fullenwider.

Mrs. Booe is the former Helen Spencer of Benedict, Kan. The Booes did not have any children prior to the adoption of these children.

Proposes Tax Cut Program For New York

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Gov. Averell Harriman proposed to the New York State Legislature today a program for tax cuts, multi-million-dollar boosts in state spending and an end to "government behind closed doors."

The Democratic governor said in his third annual message to the state that he would recommend slashes in the state income and small business taxes.

He urged a $50-million dollar expansion of the state university, an eight-million increase in state scholarships and a $50-million housing bond issue.

The message translated Harriman's professed "Jeffersonian" political philosophy into 1957 action. The governor, who says he will run for re-election in 1958, recommended many things sought by many groups of voters.

Other Harriman proposals were renewal of rent controls, and final legislative approval of a constitutional amendment legalizing bingo on a local-option basis.

Among his requests Harriman restated his desire for a constitutional amendment which would

91-Year-Old Man Plans To Launch New Party

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—With his 91st birthday coming up Jan. 13, Dr. Francis E. Townsend, the old age pension plan leader, says he's going to launch a new political party in California.

Townsend says it will be known as the Women's Anti-Poverty Party.

He also wants a state atomic energy law governing industrial uses of nuclear power.

His message hammered at the theme that government should be closer to the people. He proposed major reforms in the legislative and electoral processes.

The most significant of these called for some system of primary elections, coupled with the state's current convention system, for choosing candidates for statewide office.

Harriman also urged "maximum opportunity for the public to be heard and for open debate" before passage of bills.

Chamber Board

to have a membership in the Chamber.

Paul Hunnell, wholesalers and manufacturers director, stated that he had appointed Aubrey Case as chairman of the wholesalers and Jack Cunningham chairman of the manufacturers. He explained that in addition to the previous program of work two more things had been added to that his division intended to work on. The first extra project is to find a place big enough to serve banquets for large conventions and display space. This, he pointed out, is the thing that is keeping many conventions out of Sedalia, and conventions are important to a town. The second thing is to help industries already in Sedalia to expand and to encourage them to do so. An additional 50 or 100 employees added to an industry already here, he explained, would be better than going out working and spending a lot of money to bring in a new industry that would employ the same number of people.

Wes Murphy, director of recreation and education, announced that for the Economics Education Class there has been arranged a special out-of-town speaker. This class, he said, would be a great benefit to the community and will be held in February, either the 25th or 26th.

Everett Stevenson, director of agriculture, announced the Soil and Crops Conference will be held Feb. 16 and is the first of several things planned by his division to promote better understanding of mutual problems of people of the rural area and the town.

William Gibson, state and national affairs director, stated that he had appointed Milton Overstreet, state representative, chairman of the state legislation committee and that Overstreet will send proposed bills effecting the city in for study and he stated that there will also be a legislative study group for both state and national bills. Earl Crawford is heading this group. He told of the legislative clinic planned and of the State Fair activities, of which W. C. Askew is chairman. Kenzie Miller will be parade chairman.

Harry Naugel, director of the retail merchants division, stated that a new calendar will be set up later for store hours and other things for 1957. He has appointed his committee chairman and announced that the chairman of the Christmas parade will be Lloyd Phillips.

D. Kelly Scruton, director of the aviation and military division, stated that his division is endeavoring to carry out the plans they have. Virgil Corson, director of business relations told the group his new plans were made and would be put to work right away. John Snodgrass, director of transportation and traffic, also has complete plans and certain phases of proper time to put them to work.

The board voted to change the time of the board meeting from 3:30 p. m. the second Tuesday in the month to 3 p. m.

The board also voted to send Vernon Rodick, president of the Chamber, to the National Chamber of Commerce convention in April.

Rodick presided over the meeting which was opened with prayer by Del Heckart. Present at the meeting were: Del Heckart, first vice-president; J. L. Van Wagner, Jr., second vice-president; Mrs. Ike L. Warren, treasurer; Jack L. Faber, executive manager; Floyd Priddy, president; D. Kelly Scruton, Everett Stevenson, Harry Nagel, Paul Hunnell, William Gibson, Jess Brown, Virgil Corson, Wes Murphy, and John Snodgrass, all directors, and L. H. Reed, ex-officio member.

'Eulogy to Dog' To Be Presented On TV Friday

The famous "Eulogy to a Dog" by Senator George Graham Vest, formerly of Sedalia, who paid tribute to old Drum in a suit over the dog's death in the trial of Burden vs. Hornsby at Warrensburg in 1870, will be dramatized at 8 p. m. Friday on Channel 4.

Drum, favorite hound of Charles Burden, was shot by a Leonidas Hornsby when the dog was found prowling around his yard one dark night. Hornsby had sworn to kill the next dog that came into his yard after he had lost a number of his sheep and so when Drum wandered over, regardless of the fact that Hornsby had hunted with Drum, one of the best hunting dogs anywhere, he shot the dog.

Burden sued for damages and the case was finally taken to the Supreme Court, but it was the tribute to the dog by Senator Vest, made in the courtroom at Warrensburg, that not only awarded Burden $50 damages but won Sen. Vest fame, and became a classic speech.

After 86 years, Old Drum is to be immortalized in a statue, according to the Chamber of Commerce of Warrensburg, where the final trial was held. Dog lovers all over the country responded quickly to the national announcement of the placing of this statue to Old Drum, who has become a kind of symbol of all dogs that people have loved.

The Missouri Historical Society has already placed a plaque on the site of the old courthouse, scene of Vest's famous Eulogy, recognizing it as an historic spot in the state, and the placing of a statue to Old Drum in Warrensburg will complete the shrine.

$5,170,000 Aid For Hungary Refugees

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Red Cross said today its special campaign for funds to help Hungarian refugees has brought in $5,170,000.

Although this exceeded the goal of five million dollars, Red Cross Chairman E. Roland Harriman said still more money is needed.

Capt. Stevens Is Optimist Club Speaker

Capt. William Stevens, White-man Air Force Base, was the speaker at Optimist Club Tuesday noon at Bothwell Hotel at which time he talked on the subject "Never Sit Under the Apple Tree."

Capt. Stevens said that he had worked at various things but the thing he had liked best was door-to-door selling. Capt. Stevens said he knew that he could go anywhere, at any time, set up any kind of business and make a success of it.

The law of averages always catch up eventually with anyone who doesn't do the right thing, he said, but the same thing happens for the betterment of a person and his family when the person uses the law of averages for good. He just can't help benefiting eventually.

He then told of a top insurance man who made 1,800 telephone calls without results, but those telephone calls later resulted in $3,600 worth of business. According to this insurance man, a telephone call is worth $2 and a personal call is worth $5.

This method of the law of average is mentioned three times in the Bible, Capt. Stevens pointed out. Whether working for good or bad, he said, the seed sown over a period of time will produce just what is sown. If there is a ripe apple on the tree, he told the group, shake the tree and then go to other trees and shake them until the ripe apples come down. Don't sit under the apple trees waiting for the ripe apples to fall on you.

Capt. Stevens was introduced by Maurice Hogan, program chairman.

The meeting was presided over by the president, Dr. Charles Blach.

Invitation was given by Dr. K. L. Holdren. Charles Hanna led the group singing with Miss Lillian Fox at the piano.

Plans were made for the chili supper that will be held in February.

The speaker next week will be F. Reed Grainger, State director of the Federal Crop Insurance Corp., and will talk on the Federal Group Insurance program.

Don Lamm Explains Rotary's By-Laws And Constitution

Program chairman for the day was Wallace Wise.

The meeting was presided over by the Rev. Thomas W. Croxton, president, with invocation by the Rev. D. Warren Neal. Singing was led by Dick Snow with Miss Lillian Fox as accompanist.

Visitors introduced by Jack Cunningham were Jim Goodrich and Larry Shepard, Junior Rotarians; Bob Burns, Kansas City, guest of John Brown; Dick Staley, St. Louis, guest of D. S. Lamm, Jr.; John T. Reddy, Kansas City, guest of Charles E. Messerly; Rotarians James Deakins, Clinton; Larry Griffith, Port Alleghe, Pa., guest of Carl Baulmer.

There will be a board meeting Wednesday noon at the Bothwell Hotel.

Canadian Cold Air Moves South To Central US

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Biting cold stung northern sections of the mid-continent today as temperatures plunged to sub-zero levels.

The cold Canadian air moved south and southeastward across the Northern Plains and extended over the area from Montana to western Wisconsin and southward into Kansas.

Temperatures were mostly in the teens near the leading edge of the cold air but to the north and northwest they were below zero in Minnesota, the Dakotas and Montana and in parts of Nebraska, Wisconsin and Iowa.

It was 24 degrees below zero in International Falls, Minn., one of the lowest readings. Other icy marks included -16 at Fargo, N. D., and -15 at Fargo, N. D.

Light snow fell in sections of the icy belt. Gusts northerly winds also were reported in some areas. The cold air was expected by tonight to cover all the northern section of the county from Idaho eastward across the northern and central plains, the Great Lakes, most of the Ohio Valley and into the western Mid-Atlantic Coast states.

Light snow or snow flurries were forecast for most of the cold region with showers south and southeast through the Gulf and the Southern and Mid-Atlantic Coast states.

Reds Are Reported To Have Sent Dozen Jet Planes to Syria

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia was reported today to have delivered about a dozen MIG-17 jet fighters to Syria within the past three days.

The shipment, according to diplomatic sources, was made by sea. It was understood to be part of a 26-million-dollar deal the Syrians made with Russia some time ago. Syria previously has received some Soviet tanks, small arms, ammunition and armored cars.

Officials said the Russians apparently have adopted a practice of shipping direct to Syria instead of by way of Egypt. Many weapons bound for Syria were reported destroyed in Egypt during the Israeli-British-French attacks which began Oct. 29.

Officials saw no immediate serious danger in the arrival of late-model MIG fighters in Syria.

Elvis Presley Rated 1-A by Draft Board

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—It's a Class 1-A rating for Elvis Presley, the rock 'n' roller now awaiting an invitation from Uncle Sam to join the Army.

Presley recently was given a pre-induction examination, and the Army said yesterday that he passed with flying colors.

"Physically he's an A-profile, and that's as high as you can go," said Capt. Elwyn P. Rowan, commander of the Army's recruiting station here.

The teen-age idol's mental rating "was about average," added Rowan.

Draft Board 86 gives the official classification, but the board so far hasn't received Presley's test scores. They're in the mail, however, Rowan said.

Actress Signs Kidnap Report In Movie Style

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Marie McDonald's signature is on a police crime report today, the law's summary of her account of being kidnapped from her Encino home and pushed out of a car on a desert highway 24 hours later.

Once again there was a Hollywood touch to the latest incident. The signing had some of the flourishes of a movie contract agreement ceremony.

Detectives took the report to the actress' home. She received them in her living room late yesterday. She wore a silver brocade Mandarin robe with jeweled collar, not to be confused with the robe she was wearing when she said she was kidnapped last Thursday night, nor the one she wore for a Hollywoodish police-directed, filmed re-enactment at her home Monday.

She gestured with a long, gold cigarette holder. At her shoulder, studying the document, proof-reading it and making a few minor penciled corrections, was the watchful legal expert in criminal law, Atty. Jerry Giesler.

She signed, with Giesler's permission.

Later she leafed through two large volumes of assorted pictures of 300 known criminals, pointing out facial characteristics of some similar to the physiognomies of the two men she said snatched her and let her go late Friday night 150 miles away near Indio, Calif.

From her descriptions, police artist Ector Garcia is making up composite sketches supposed to look like the alleged kidnapers.

45 Senators Renew Drive For Fund Gauge

WASHINGTON (AP)—Forty-five senators from both parties renewed today the drive for legislation designed to give Congress a better yardstick for measuring government spending.

They joined in signing, for introduction today, a measure calling for the departments to submit estimates of money needs on the basis of requirements for a single year. Budget figures now often include obligations over a period of several years.

Sen. Kennedy (D-Mass.), chairman of the Senate Reorganization subcommittee, which will hold hearings on the bill; Chairman Byrd (D-Va.) of the Senate Finance Committee; and Sen. Payne (R-Maine) were joined by 42 other senators in sponsoring the measure.

It is designed to implement one of the recommendations of the Hoover Commission, a task force of which estimated several billion dollars could be saved if the plan were made effective.

It would convert the entire governmental financial structure to an annual accrued basis.

10 Refugees Return To Austria From US

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government says 10 Hungarian refugees have been returned to Austria—eight of them for making false statements or misrepresentations to get into the United States. The other two asked to go back.

In making this information public yesterday, the immigration service declined to identify the 10, or to say whether communism or subversion was a factor in any of the cases.

Immigration Commissioner Joseph M. Swing said the action came as a result of a continuing

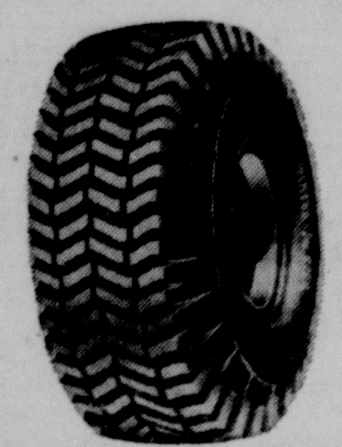

THE SEDALIA DEMOCRAT—Sedalia, Mo., Wed., January 9, 1957 7

Investigation of the 19,000 Hungarians who have arrived so far at Camp Kilmer, N.J. Last month, immigration officials said they were confident no Communists or members of Hungarian secret police had reached this country under the refugee program.

Cicero Had Words For It

Planning a business day program and adhering to it constitutes part of an efficiency expert's lectured discipline.

It may be wonderful for big business but any Ohio or Main Street business man would go into mild hysteria if he thought he had to regiment himself without ample tolerance for a half dozen outside activities in which he is repeatedly called upon to participate by the Chamber of Commerce or other organizations.

But that's what makes living in a town like Sedalia worth while—just far enough from the mechanical living in a metropolitan area where everything is supposed to be so efficient—socially and business-wise.

The small town gets away from the false concept that individual advancement is made by crushing others, which the Roman philosopher Cicero referred to 2,000 years ago.

In pointing out this delusion as among six mistakes of man, Cicero hit upon one which even in a small town is difficult to get away from: the tendency to worry about things that cannot be changed or corrected. Some people just can't be reformed, so why worry about changing them. But people do, just the same.

They even make another mistake of attempting to compel other persons to believe and live as they do.

But there's one mistake referred to by Cicero which people in a smaller community like Sedalia seldom make: they do not insist a thing is impossible because they can't accomplish it immediately.

Sedalia's progress depends on repudiation of the fallacy that once a project is defeated it cannot be revived. Progress for any community means keeping everlastingly at it despite interruptions.

Small town business men may have difficulty planning a perfect day's program. Allowance for interruptions must be made.

The same technique must be followed in planning city improvement programs. No matter how efficient the planning there must be allowance for interruptions and disappointments.

Sooner or later oppositionists to projects for community progress must set aside their trivial objections or else make another of the six mistakes Cicero wrote about 2,000 years ago.

Break For Railroads

For the last few years we have been hearing much about the way business is diversifying. Many firms have spread a big tent over dozens of more or less unrelated enterprises.

There are lots of reasons for the trend, but among the best are that it allows companies to divide their risks so that if one line slips another more successful activity may offset any loss and keep the firms humming.

Up to now, railroads have been barred from any combinations. Regulated by government, they have had to struggle along in a tough competitive period without the lift other corporations have had.

Recently, however, rumblings started which suggest that key lawmakers in Congress might take a different view and allow the roads some ventures afield, into airlines, trucking, barge lines and even pipelines.

The evidence from the financial pages indicates that many rail firms could use the shot in the arm and the stability that might follow from such combinations.

Washington Merry-Go-Round—

Support For Ike Doctrine Badly Needed

DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — It would be disastrous in the extreme if the Congress did not support the President in voting the new Eisenhower Doctrine for the Near East. Here are certain events, some of them little known to the public, which back up this conclusion.

Shortly after the election, a hurried White House meeting was called to consider The Kremlin's note to England and France threatening attack if they did not quit fighting in Suez.

Herbert Hoover, Acting Secretary of State, was deathly afraid Russia would precipitate war. He reported various moves made by Moscow.

"This sent the jitters through American leaders," I reported on November 12 . . . "urgent messages were rushed to Prime Minister Eden and Premier Mollet warning that the fate of Western civilization might rest upon their agreement to an immediate cease fire in Suez."

These events, reported exclusively in this column November 12, were officially substantiated on December 12 when U. S. Ambassador Douglas Dillon in France stated that neither the United States nor the United Nations, but rather Soviet threats had brought about the French-British cease fire.

Eden Is Scornful
This is one backstage incident that makes Congressional support for the proposed Eisenhower Doctrine so necessary. For both European and the Near East governments are convinced the Eisenhower administration can be outbluffed by Moscow, that it won't intervene in the Near East unless it has an official OK from Congress.

This view is so widely and scornfully held that Prime Minister Eden, discussing the proposed Eisenhower Doctrine with a diplomat last week, remarked that the President would not use American Forces unless "the Red Army was marching up Pennsylvania Avenue."

Executive warnings vs. Congressional warnings — One of the chief reasons Eisenhower went to Congress with a special request to give him power which he admits he already has, is the ineffectiveness of recent U.S. warnings.

American diplomats abroad have been reporting that Eisenhower Administration warnings don't mean much anymore. Nobody particularly believes them. On the other hand, the warning supported by Congress in regard to Formosa has meant something.

The President himself detailed some of the Near East warnings in his message to Congress. Some had been made by Truman, some by him. Truman had participated with Britain and France in the Tripartite Declaration of 1950 against changing the borders of the Near East. Eisenhower had warned April 9, 1956 against any Near East aggression. Again as recently as November 29, 1956 he warned against any threat to Iraq, Turkey, Iran, or Pakistan.

Simultaneously, he had bowed to Russian threats on November 5, and all during the election campaign he had repeatedly announced that the United States was not going to get involved in the Near East. These repeated statements were believed not only by the American electorate but by the chanceries of Europe, Asia, and Africa.

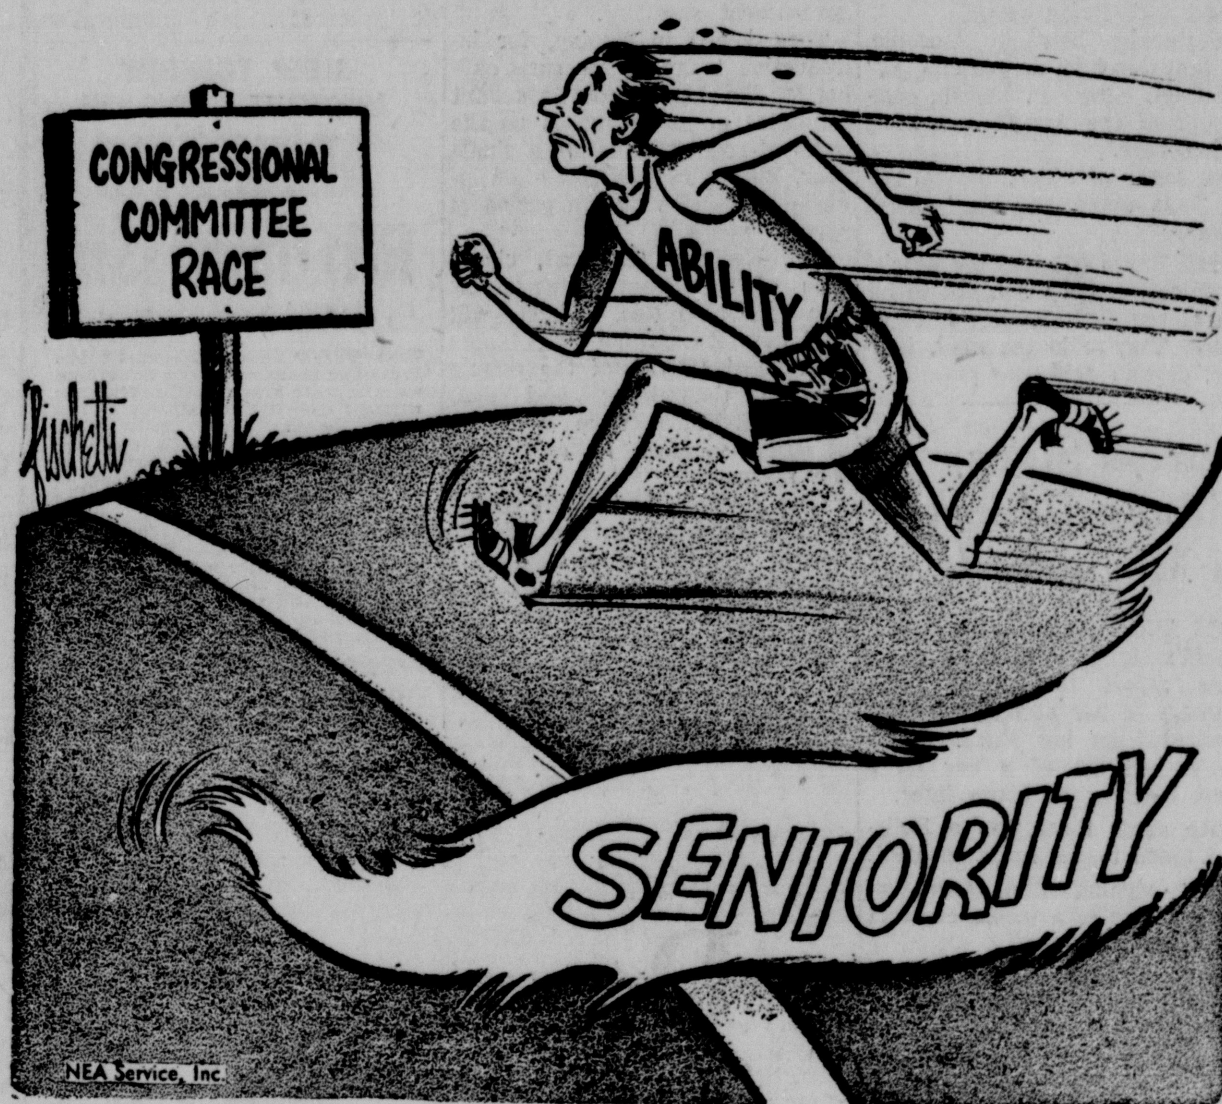

So as Ike himself confessed in his message to Congress: "Nevertheless, weaknesses in the present situation and the increased danger from International Communism convince me that basic United States policy should now find expression in joint action by the Congress and the Chief Executive."

This was a dignified way of rephrasing what American diplomats have been reporting in blunter language: That the word of the executive branch of the government, alone, isn't worth much anymore when it comes to stopping a threat of war.

That is why it would be a tragedy if Congress did not back up the New Eisenhower Doctrine.

Dulles Befogs Ike's Mid-East Program

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles has thrown so much fog around President Eisenhower's program for the Middle East that now it is just about as clear as the ace of spades in a tunnel.

So far the sound effects from this program have been good: the administration did a bangup job in publicizing it. Now it's up to the administration to show what, if anything, is behind the sound.

This much seems visible: Eisenhower wants congressional authority to use U.S. armed forces in the Middle East, if necessary, to stop a Communist or Communist-inspired attack on a non-Communist country.

But that's just one part of the program. These other parts are all clouded over: Eisenhower also wants to give economic aid and military assistance — meaning arms — to nations in the Middle East.

Dulles spent 4½ hours Monday explaining the program to the House Foreign Affairs Committee in public hearing. When he got all through these two questions needed answering:

Will the economic aid Eisenhower talks about really amount to much more, if any more, than the aid already being given to the Middle East? And will this country really provide any more arms than it has been giving away?

The questions put to Dulles by the committee members in public — no one knows what was said in a secret session yesterday — were neither sharp nor persistent. He'll have a rougher time next week before Senate committees.

This country has two basic programs for providing Middle Eastern countries with arms.

1. Under the mutual security program a nation receiving arms agrees to let in American officers to supervise their use. This ties them in militarily, more or less, with this country. Under this program only three countries in the area — Iran, Iraq and Turkey — have received arms.

2. Within limits, the United States sells arms for cash. It has sold very little. Dulles has kept the price high — so high that Egypt bought its arms from Russia — and explains he doesn't want an arms race in the Middle East.

How will the new program change anything? It's hard to see how it will change anything at all. Dulles told the House committee this country will not, under the new program, depart from its policy of not being a "primary" source of arms to the Middle East.

This is the picture, or part of it, on the economic aid the administration talks of as part of this new program:

The Arab countries and Israel in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1955, received $176,757,000 (if Turkey and Greece were added it would be $301,386,000) in economic aid. In the fiscal year ending June 30, 1956, they received $109,631,000 (if Turkey and Greece were added it would be $244,286,000).

But Eisenhower talks of wanting to spend 200 million dollars a year in the Middle East. Would that be just a total of 200 million? If so, it wouldn't be a lot more than those countries have been receiving. Or would it be $200 million in addition to the present rate of aid? That hasn't been explained.

One of the primary questions, of course, is: Do they need all that money and would they know what to do with it if they got it? Some House members complained last week the waste of American aid money in Iran has been "shocking."

Dulles added to the puzzlement by stating that the $4 million he had earmarked to help Egypt build the Aswan Dam — but then canceled — would not be given. But the dam is what Egypt says it needs.

What, then, will be done for Egypt, which right now is the biggest danger spot in the Middle East? No public answer to that one yet either.

Dr. Jordan Says—

Diabetics' Lives Depend On Careful Treatment

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.

I have just received a letter which is both alarming and astonishing. It says, "If a person with diabetes has been taking insulin and then stops without the doctor's advice and continues eating all the sweets and cakes the person likes what effect would it have on the system? Could there be some complication because of it?"

Such a person could get all manner of serious complications and stands a good chance of killing himself in short order. The fact that the person in question had been taking insulin suggests that the disease was fairly serious; I had thought that by now every one knew that severe diabetes was not a disease to trifle with.

One of the greatest difficulties in treatment of diabetes is to get people to follow directions exactly. Too often victims either feel that they know more than the doctor or the temptation to eat the wrong food is too great to resist.

Diabetes can be controlled but carelessness is dangerous because serious complications, such as infections and gangrene, can develop and necessitate amputation of a limb or other radical treatment.

Diabetes develops when the pancreas, which is a small gland lying near the stomach, fails to supply sufficient amount of a hormone commonly known as insulin. This hormone is necessary for the proper use of sugar in the body.

When there is not enough insulin in the blood the sugar is not properly used. The sugar in the blood increases and spills over through the kidneys into the urine.

The first symptoms of diabetes are not particularly striking. Loss of weight, in spite of a good appetite and ample diet, is common. Increased urination is also frequent. If the disease is severe and goes on untreated, loss of weight and other signs develop after a while.

The treatment of diabetes is complicated. No two patients with the disease are exactly alike and need exactly the same treatment or injections.

Good care involves first of all careful chemical examinations of the blood and urine to find out just how serious the condition is. When this is done the doctor can tell whether diet alone will be sufficient or whether the patient will also need injections of insulin.

Not all people who have sugar in the urine have diabetes, but when sugar is found, careful examinations should be made. Once the diagnosis of diabetes has been established, the diet and treatment should be continued conscientiously.

Overseas Trials Fair—

Fundamental Rights Of Servicemen Not Violated

By Esther Van Wagoner Tufty

WASHINGTON — All the uproar against our servicemen overseas being tried in foreign courts on criminal cases has simmered down since some professors of Georgetown Law School made a non-government survey in NATO countries and determined full justice was meted out to American men in uniform.

Their answer is "the results contain nothing to cause any concern and much to reassure us." In fact, one professor said the American soldier gets a lighter sentence than he would receive in either an American military or civilian court. The attitude of foreign courts seems to be to give the American the benefit of any doubt.

The non-political report will come as a surprise to some returning Senators, who set up a special subcommittee on the NATO Status of Forces treaties.

The chairman of that subcommittee, Senator Sam Ervin (D-N.C.), admits he might not have voted "for this departure in our system of justice" had he been in the Senate when the treaty was under debate.

But now this former state Supreme Court judge is relieved to find "that servicemen are being well-treated in foreign courts."

He quotes from one section of the Georgetown report: "In no case studied did we feel that the fundamental rights of any servicemen were violated, or that procedures were followed or results were reached which were such as to shock the conscience or offend against a concept of ordered liberty."

In 1953, the vote in the Senate was 72-15 for the agreements well over the necessary two-thirds necessary to ratify a treaty.

At the time of the adoption it was felt that NATO itself was unprecedented, being an alliance under which troops are stationed in foreign countries in time of peace, thereby making it necessary for their courts to have jurisdiction in trying servicemen on criminal charges.

Senator Ervin reported out a bill last session to authorize the Defense Department to employ local foreign counsel in cases where U.S. servicemen are tried in foreign courts under Status of Forces agreements.

Despite favorable reports, this giving such jurisdiction to foreign courts is likely to remain a delicate matter between nations.

Ruth Millett Says—

Dissatisfaction Result If You Try to Please All

It took all of her will power to stick to the rigid diet her doctor prescribed. But the day finally came when she stepped on the scales and saw she was a trim, slim 135 pounds instead of the 225 pounds she had started out to whittle down to fit a size 14.

Pleased with herself and happy over her triumph of will power versus appetite, she expected all of her friends to pat her on the back. Instead, some friends are telling her she looks too thin, spoiling her triumph with their critical remarks.

She wants to know why.

The answer is that you can't please everybody.

If you are wise you don't even expect to. Whether you are slimming down, buying a new dress, redoing the living room or whatever, somebody is going to think you are making a big mistake.

And somebody is going to take the wind out of your sails by telling you that your face looks haggard since you've lost so much weight, that blue is more becoming to you than the green you chose for your new dress, that the living room looks nice but wouldn't it have been better if you had done such-and-such?

That is because there are quite a few people in the world who don't like to see other people happy with what they have and pleased with the choices they have made or the things they have accomplished.

There's just one way to deal with those wet blankets: Ignore 'em. You don't have to please everybody when you set out to please yourself.

Don't even try — if you ever want to be contented with what you have and satisfied with what you accomplish.

St. George, Bermuda, is believed to be the oldest English-speaking community in the western hemisphere. It was founded in 1612, eight years before the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth Rock.

them—they wanted to sing a hymn: "Standing on the Promises of God, My Savior."

They stood proudly and sang loudly but the words that came out were: "Dangling on the Promises of God, My Caesar."—H.L.

Smith-Cotton Seniors Will Take Scholarship Exams

By Beverly Long

The end of the first semester is about here, and around Smith-Cotton all of the students are studying hard preparing for the semester examinations. All fines are being paid, and library books brought back, points are being counted and the Latin-American history classes are about over for this year. The drivers training classes of the first semester are over and a new group is starting in this class as it is in Missouri history.

Coming up next Thursday, Jan. 10, is the Ohio State psychological examinations for all Seniors. It is a part of the Missouri College Aptitude testing program. The test will be given in the senior high school library beginning at 9 a.m. and ending at noon. Supervising the test will be James Miller and the senior class sponsors. The test has been used by colleges in Missouri in awarding scholarship and has been used lately by industry in determining certain personnel to fill vacancies in specialized occupations.

The General Motors scholarship examinations will also be given soon, but only to those who desire to take it in the senior class.

Seven members of Miss Riner's freshman English classes have received certificate of acceptance from the National High School Poetry Association indicating that their poems are to be used in this year's anthology. The seven are as follows: Joan Ritzenthaler, John Hausam, Iris Cannon, Della Viebrock, Kay Burke, Linda Laughlin, and Sharon Fischer.

The Junior Student Council sponsored a formal dance for all Junior High students last Friday night at the cafeteria. The theme of the dance was "Candyland."

This last week pictures were taken of all class officers for the 1956-57 Archives which will be published this Spring.

"B" team cheerleading try outs will be held in the Little Theatre next Monday. Only freshmen and sophomores will be eligible to try out.

The annual "L" Club initiation will be held three days next week. The senior boys will initiate the junior boys who have received their letter. They will have a secret

Mental Funds Lacking

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Dr. William C. Menninger says it is imperative that public funds be provided for mental illness research because private support has largely been given to other illnesses.

The Topeka, Kan., psychiatrist told a news conference there is "15 times as much money available for cancer research" as for mental illness. He said of the care given the nation's 750,000 inmates of mental institutions: "It isn't treatment. It's custody."

Youths Drag Mortar Shell Over Ground

FT. MEADE, Md. (AP)—Some experts planned to find out just why a roughly-treated mortar shell kept it head and let a dozen neophytes keep theirs.

The 14th Explosive Ordnance Disposal unit planned to test the foreign-made 81 or 82 millimeter shell.

Stanley Tolbert, 12, and Gary Freed, 13, of Edgemere, found the shell in a half-submerged barge in North Point Creek Saturday. They tied a rope around it and dragged it 500 yards to the Tolbert home.

Two officers, called to the home wrapped the shell in a blanket, stuck it in the trunk of their cruiser and transported it to Fort Holabird.

Similar Names Cause Mixup in Court Case

DETROIT (AP)—The more that Leonard Saunders insisted he was not the right man, the harder Recorder's Judge John P. O'Hara pounded his gavel and ordered silence.

While the court picked its jury, Saunders managed to catch the ear of his defense counsel, Cora Brown. One look, with a double take, convinced her. The court did have the wrong man.

Smith-Cotton 'A', Freshmen Squads Subdue Windsor

Varsity Cagers Draw 72-43 Win, Freshmen Emerge 43-23 Victors In Non-Conference Twin Bill Here

Smith-Cotton gained a double victory here Tuesday night when both the varsity and freshmen teams won their games against Windsor. The varsity took theirs by a 29-point margin of 72-43 while the freshmen were winners by 20 points, 43-23.

In both games the Tigers jumped to early leads and were never tied or passed in the scoring. The teams enjoyed their easiest game of the season, Windsor not being up to its usual fighting spirit as has been witnessed on the local court in past seasons.

The varsity fired away 20 points to six in the opening quarter, added 17-8 in the second for a halftime recess lead of 37-14. In the third quarter Windsor scored 18 to 18 and in the final stanza the Tigers pushed further 15-11.

Everybody on the Tiger bench got into the game, resulting in the individual scoring being held down. Larry Shepherd led the scoring with five goals and two free tosses for 12 points while Middleton chucked in 5-1 for 11 points, and Herick with 3-4 had ten.

For Windsor it was Curtwright who was the high point man of the evening, making two goals and ten free throws for a total of 14 points, followed by Summers with 3-5 for 11.

The freshmen bench saw plenty of action with 12 players getting into the game and Poynter ranking as top shooter with 6-1 for 13 points while Brown netted 4-2 for ten points. For Windsor it was Jackson with five goals for ten tallies.

The varsity's next session is scheduled for Friday night when Jefferson City comes to town to meet the Tigers in a Central Missouri Conference clash.

Kangaroo Caught

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—A citizen who called police at midnight to report he saw a kangaroo galloping along a street was sober and telling the truth, officers learned three hours later.

At 3 a.m. Patrolman John J. Brown lassoed the animal, a wallaby, a small-size cousin of the kangaroo, after chasing him at 30 miles an hour in a patrol car. The wallaby was returned to the zoo.

$5 Theft Brings Man 2-Year Prison Term

TORONTO (AP)—Edward Wheatman, 72, appeared before Magistrate R. I. Blain, charged with a toy-pistol store robbery which netted him $5.

The magistrate recognized Wheatman as a man he said had given him a $40 bad check 20 years ago. Wheatman said he'd given Blain two bad checks and the amount was $80.

Blain sentenced Wheatman to two years in prison — on the robbery charge.

Fast Draw

GREENWICH, Conn. (AP)—Adolph Mongavero, 36, was making like Gene Autry. His "six-gun" was fairly leaping from the holster, his draw had become so lightning fast.

In fact it leaped so fast, police say, it got away from him. And, as it landed on the floor of his room, it exploded, sending a .38 caliber slug through Mongavero's left calf and into a nearby wall.

"I thought the hammer rested on an empty chamber in the cylinder," he told police at a hospital where he was taken for treatment.

Thinks Eyelashes Tell Much About Person's Character

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The oddity almanac:

Do your eyelashes tell your character? Grace Downs, head of an air hostess and modeling school here, believes so. "If you have curved eyelashes," she says, "you are a calm person; if your lashes are short and straight, you have a nervous temperament; if your lashes are thin at the outer corners, you are lazy."

Forestry Digest estimates that a single porcupine will destroy $6,000 worth of timber in its lifetime.

Americans are getting more seashore conscious: New York public beaches served five million people in 1934 but in 20 years the number increased to 61 million annually.

Tips to hunters: Don't target shoot at objects in the water—your bullet may ricochet off the surface. Never leave a loaded gun leaning against a tree; your frisky dog may bump against it, knock off the safety, then step on the trigger and bag his master! Experts say proper care could avoid 95 per cent of all hunting accidents.

Stupefying statistics for the uninformed: It takes six to eight weeks to make one of those one-minute TV commercials many folks complain about—but only one to two weeks to put on the dramas between them. Americans use 500 billion matches a year, or nearly 3,000 a person. A fish called the eulachon is so oily that, if it is dried and a wick is stuck to it, it will burn like a candle. You could probably do the same thing with a whale, but it would take longer, and the neighbors might holler.

The almanac abroad: His own people are more of a long-range problem to President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt than either the British or the Suez Canal. The population increased 105 per cent between 1897 and 1949, but the land under cultivation increased only about 14 per cent. More than 96 per cent is desert. The population density along the Nile is 1,670 per square mile. Moslem pride in having large families makes difficult the task of curbing Egypt's birth rate, one of the highest in the world. Watch for further explosions.

The almanac editorial: How many bald men have nicknames for their remaining hairs? During the last election campaign President Eisenhower was quoted as remarking he had so few left he had names for them—"Helen, Edna, Ellen."

While the editors of the almanac hesitate to disagree with President Ike on a question of purely personal privilege, we question his wisdom in giving his dwindling hirsute souvenirs feminine names, as the Weather Bureau does hurricanes.

After all, they have not gone with the wind. These thin grey faithful survivors have shown none of the fickleness often attributed to women. Do they not deserve a higher renown? We ourselves are balding rapidly.

ly. Faced with the same problem as Ike, we are naming our few scattered hairs as the British do their warships: "Indomitable," "Courageous," "Repulse," "Indefatigable" and "Redoubtable."

We have even reserved a special name for the hair that makes a last lone stand. It will be called "Custer."

The almanac's annual don't-do-it-yourself hint: Many suburban husbands have written in to ask how they can keep from getting poison ivy while spring cleaning their acreage. There is only one sure way. Stay indoors yourself and hire your wife and children to do the work for you. They have more time to scratch and apply lotions.

Almanac long-range crop forecast: Strong winds on Capitol Hill should create record production of corn in Washington, D.C., area. Marked seasonal pickup in ham output in same vicinity. Also, despite heavy slaughter of lambs in last November's political harvest, no decrease in wool-gathering is foreseen.

OTTAWA, Ill. (AP)—Charles J. Layne was all set to bag a mess of ducks, but a thief interrupted his plans.

His 16-foot fiber glass boat, painted light green with dark
